A MIDSUMMER'S DAY MESSAGE

Last Christmas, as is the custom each year, the leaders of the political parties release an appropriate message. David Cameron was applauded for talking about Christian Values.

To be topical in one of the services I was leading early in the New Year, the congregation and myself considered what we thought were Christian Values.

At the time of writing this, Easter has just passed and on the Government's web site, the Prime Minister, David Cameron has sent out his Easter Message: - "Easter is a message of hope to the millions of Christians in our country and all around the world".

And Christian Values again feature because "they have helped to make our country what it is today". He goes on to name them: -

"responsibility, hard work, charity, compassion and pride in working for the common good and honouring the social obligations we have to one another."

So I say well done to him for raising again the important matter of Christian Values.

The first festival I'm aware of in this magazine's edition is Midsummer's Day, 24th June. A Quarter Day in the legal calendar, but for "pagans" it is very important.

Stonehenge of course is centre stage to mark that the days are starting to get shorter, winter is on its way. Though for most of us we've still got to have our summer holidays!

The values most of us hold dear in this country, whether we are Christian, Humanist, Atheist, Muslim or something else have been passed down to us through the message of Christ. The messengers along the way may have distorted it, but the true message always gets through and like it or not, the values and standards for us to aspire to are engrained in our culture.

So what Christian Values came out of that service last January?

The overriding principle is Jesus' words : - "Love the Lord your God and love your neighbour as yourself." An alternative for the second half is often:- "Treat others as you want to be treated yourself."

So we listed in no particular order:- Kindness – Caring – Respect – Sacrifice – Feeding the Hungry – Humility – Respond to Need – Contentment with our lot – Justice for Those without a Voice – Honesty.

And there are many more which can be added. However there are two further ones which may be considered the most difficult to follow: -

Repentance: The need to say "Sorry" to God for wrongs done and saying "Sorry" to those who've been wronged. Easy to say "Sorry" but harder to mean it.

Our attempts to put right those wrongs show God whether we really mean "Sorry".

Forgiveness: This can be given unconditionally. When it happens, it amazes us, and helps restore our faith in human nature. Sometimes unfortunately forgiveness is not given or returned even when genuine remorse is shown.

So my Midsummer's Day message is this: - "Let the light of Jesus Christ brighten up a good summer's day, to the same intensity as it should, during those dark wintry times."

May the love God gives to us radiate the love we show to those around us. Allow the Holy Spirit to make Christian Values shine, so we can see God's glory and His love all around us.

May we be inspired to be part of a Midsummer Dream where people of all Faiths and Beliefs show Respect to each other, so together it shines as a beacon making Reconciliation, Peace and Harmony a Reality in this divided and fractious world."

Letter from the Superintendent

Dear Friends

Many of you reading this letter will know what it is like to have no living parent.

Some of us lost our parents early in life and some much later, some were raised from birth by foster or adoptive parents, others may have had house parents in an institution. Until my Mum died in April I had never known what it was like to not have a parent alive. I half-jokingly said that I was an orphan.

According to common usage my statement was not true: an orphan is 'a child whose parents are dead', and I am not a child. Or am I?

It seems to me that childhood is not very far away, however old we are, and our memories take us there readily. It may be that we have seen a few things, done a few things, achieved a few things, hopefully learned a few things, and have a certain amount of maturity, but underneath all that there is still the little child. This idea is captured poignantly in the words of the hymn "Take this moment, sign, and space" by John Bell and Graham Maule (Singing the Faith 513): "Take the little child in me, scared of growing old..."

The hymn is a prayer to God in which the writers offer to God all that they are and have: their time, skills, tiredness, hopes and fears, and this includes the child inside and all its vulnerabilities. It is an honest hymn-prayer, and one which I feel sure is acceptable to God.

God calls us God's children, and in Jesus we see the example of one who speaks to God as Abba, that is, Father. Jesus not only addresses

God with that familial term 'Abba' but calls us to approach God's kingdom 'as little children', for it belongs to such as these. When the time approached for Jesus to leave the disciples he promised that he would not leave them as orphans, but would give his Spirit by which they will find their place in God's family, and in Paul's letter to the Romans, chapter 8, it is made clear:

For all who are led by the Spirit of God are children of God...When we cry, 'Abba! Father!' it is that very Spirit bearing witness with our spirit that we are children of God, and if children, then heirs, heirs of God and joint heirs with Christ....

These promises apply equally to us today as to the early disciples. We are to approach God as God's children, adopted into his family forever. So, I may have lost my last parent, Mum, but I am not orphaned - I am a child of God!

I wish to take this opportunity to thank all of you for the cards, letters, phone calls, hugs and prayers that I received after Mum's death. They really did make a huge difference. Thank you!

Love and blessings
Rev Sue

... offer to God all that they are and have: their time, skills, tiredness, hopes and fears, and this includes the child inside and all its vulnerabilities.

Rolling Reports from the March 2016 Circuit Meeting

Newtown

Outreach is our aim at Newtown as we continue to provide friendship to all we meet including those on the street, at Coffee mornings, at Ladies Friendship and at Sunday Lunches. Anyone in need we try to help with understanding and Christian love, whoever they may be.

Bible Study takes place at 2pm on the 1st & 3rd Monday in the month - all welcome.

We support the Salvation Army food bank and provide driver and helper for Meals on Wheels during August. For six months a Local then a National Charity receive donations along with any world appeal for those in need. Gardening donations go towards our outdoor needs.

New lighting in the hall is now completed. At the moment we are working to clear the cost of the new flooring in the foyer before moving on to the next project.

Synod, Circuit and events in other Churches are supported whenever possible, as we believe that by working together, others may come to know the love of Christ.

Sheila Pollard

Pentre Llifior

Currently we have 10 members who are often joined by three young adults (family members) based at Aberystwyth University. All have contributed to the effectiveness of our mission through their companionship and support for each other. That support has meant a chapel, virtually derelict and facing closure in 1999, now looks to the future with ever growing confidence. A future under-pinned by an initial focus on heritage and a developing ability to “tell our story”, thereby attracting visitors and extra funding - action leading to improvements way beyond the imaginings of a congregation of three nearly 20 years ago!

The bar to progress had been the poor state of the chapel and lack of facilities so we are extremely grateful for the Circuit’s past and continuing financial support. Completion of our latest improvements will give us a chapel “fit for purpose” with greater potential for advancement.

Presently, we open once a month on Saturday mornings (bacon buddies) for locals and passers-by. From April to September we also open on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons, so that visitors and tour groups may enjoy refreshments and learn something of our story. Major aims for the next two years are to significantly increase visitor numbers and attract passing cyclists using National Cycle Route 81. Also in hand is another booklet “Telling the Story of the Rev James Buckley” and another detailing the history of the chapel.

Heritage aside, we have not lost sight of what we are, namely a working chapel serving the local community and a contributor to the mission of Methodism in this Circuit.

Helping those in need is a priority and recently we have assisted the Salvation Army, Penrith (via the Cumbria Flood appeal), Wateraid (paying for a well in Ethiopia) and Methodist Women in Britain.

The need to integrate more fully with the local community is another serious issue for us and the All-Age Cell Group worship and House Group sessions may prove to be invaluable. A plan of action is being formulated.

Finally, it can be illuminating to see what people outside think of us. Comments in our Visitors' Book frequently include "spiritual" and "inspirational" as well as astonishment at the quality of the restoration. One hiccup last year was a "compliment" by a visitor on the hardness of the pews - this will be dealt with and the lady thanked for her helpful suggestion. Clearly we must up our game so that the chapel's ethos "Let friendship continue and be not forgetful to entertain strangers" can be preserved!

WE KNOW FINE WELL

What in heaven's name do we mean when we pray every day, 'Thy kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven'? What does that mean?

We know fine well what the Kingdom values are, in broad precept if not in detail, and they're not about narrow religious issues, they're about the basic stuff of human life. They're the stuff of the Sermon on the Mount.

The kingdom values are about money and possessions and power and sex and violence and security; about war; about how we treat our neighbour; about how we treat our enemy. Fine well we know God's will and we cannot hide behind ignorance.

We know God's will about flowers blooming in wilderness places, about the blind being able to see, the deaf hearing, the lame leaping and dancing and the dumb shouting aloud. It's about drug addicts and AIDS sufferers and the homeless young in 'cardboard cities' being valued and brought in from the cold.

God's will is about those who are 'rubbished' and dismissed being treasured; it's about the powerful being brought to heel; about the first being last and the last first.

It's good news to the poor; about feeding the hungry and clothing the naked; about liberty to the captives and setting free the oppressed; about the time having come when the Lord will save his people.

These are the Kingdom values; that is the Kingdom agenda and we know it well. We cannot hide behind ignorance. We cannot say we do not know ... we know, fine well!

JULIAN MEETING

“Be still and know that I am God”

The prayer of loving attention; contemplative prayer; the prayer of silence; the prayer of the heart – all these describe a way of praying which many people find to be the best way for them. As they pray they are waiting on God in silence, listening to Him, resting in Him.

Our words, our thoughts, our thanks and praise, our requests, our saying sorry are all important, but these need to be balanced by times of listening to God. In any conversation or relationship we need both to speak and to listen.

Julian Meetings are ecumenical groups of people who meet together regularly to practise silent contemplative prayer. Some members have no formal church links, but most belong to a congregation.

At a Julian Meeting we sit in a circle and relax in the presence of God. A short devotional reading, or some music, leads into a time of silent prayer, with a cross or candle in the centre to focus on as we open ourselves to God and wait on Him. We tend to depart in the silence.

If you are interested come along to Glandwr, Milford, Newtown SY16 3HD on: Tuesday 7th June at 2.30pm and/or Tuesday 16th August at the same time.

Please contact
Jenny Thomas on

if you plan to come.

Mary Anoints Jesus John 12:1-8.

Six days before the Passover Jesus came to Bethany, the home of Lazarus, whom he had raised from the dead. There they gave a dinner for him. Martha served, and Lazarus was one of those at the table with him. Mary took a pound of costly perfume made of pure nard, anointed Jesus' feet, and wiped them with her hair. The house was filled with the fragrance of the perfume. But Judas Iscariot, one of his disciples (the one who was about to betray him), said, 'Why was this perfume not sold for three hundred denarii and the money given to the poor?' (He said this not because he cared about the poor, but because he was a thief; he kept the common purse and used to steal what was put into it). Jesus said, 'Leave her alone. She bought it so that she might keep it for the day of my burial. You always have the poor with you, but you do not always have me.'

A Reflection

Amidst the noise of the kitchen and the conversation of the men, you would think that quiet, inconspicuous Mary would simply fade into the background. But quiet Mary steps forward and performs an extravagant act symbolic of friendship, service, and love for Christ.

In Mary's hands is a flask containing a pound of extremely expensive perfume made from the roots of the spikenard plant. It's worth at least a year's labour.

Spontaneously Mary kneels before Jesus, pours the perfume on his feet, and wipes them with her unbound hair. The room that once smelled of baked bread and traveling men is now filled with the smell of perfume and the sweetness of Mary's extravagant devotion.

This is an act of deep love for a friend, performed while there is still time, and it foreshadows Jesus' own act of washing the feet of the disciples out of his love for them. Such loving sacrifice brings eternal hope. We, like Mary of Bethany, can anoint the body of Christ, while there's still time, we too can bring hope.

Can you smell the sweet aromas from the various ointments? They fill our chapels with their fragrance. For example, there's the 'aroma' of music. It fills the air in hymns and choruses and voices and piano and guitar. Such gifts are the oil of gladness to Christ's body. There's the 'aroma' of art and beauty. It rises up in colours, candles, cross, banners, children's drawings. There are the gifts of time and energy spent on service for Christ, which can be seen as loving gifts to Christ's body.

Then there is the sweet gift of friendship that anoints the body of Christ. Our friendships and unity, as brothers and sisters in Christ, are like the oil that the Psalmist refers to, that drips down the beard of Aaron (Ps 133:2).

With Mary, we offer our gifts: the sweet aroma of service to the body of Christ. How sweet is the sacrifice of time spent caring for the children and adults of the church. Not only that, but also, Jesus reminds us, we always have the poor. How fragrant it is to bend down at the feet of Christ, present in the poor and needy, and anoint them with hope.

But it is not only the poor and needy who need hope. When we answer the call, like Mary, to anoint the body of Christ, through our gifts, our love, our friendship, and our service we thereby bring hope to the church itself.

There is, then, something that is both exemplary and lasting in Mary's anointing of Jesus at Bethany. It was above all an anointing of the body of Christ with hope. The church is known as the body of Christ, and when we are lavish in our fragrant offerings to others the whole church is filled with the sweet aroma of hope.
